JUNIOR WEEKEND P-DAY APRIL 11

The Michaelman

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, WINOOSKI, VT. VOL. 10 NO. 20 APRIL 6, 1957

Committee Lists Weekend Events

April 11 the Junior Class will stage "Preview Day" for the forthcoming Junior Weekend of May 3 and 4. Attired in full Parisian Holiday fashion, the Juniors will set the theme and pace for St. Michael's most extravagant annual social event.

PARISIAN STYLES

"P-Day" morning the third year men plan to grace the campus in Paris styled clothes, while the noon hour will find them touring the campus in a motor cavalcade led by floats. The highlight of the preview is a smoker in Austin Hall at 8:00 P.M., when the beard judging will take place.

The man with the most attractive beard on campus as judged by Fathers Coombs, Scully, Gopaul, and Leary will receive a Remington electric razor and cigarette lighters will be awarded to semi-finalists. All Michaelmen are invited, with free cigars and cokes to be distributed to all.

PROGRAM

The Weekend Commiteee released the official program for the May 3,4, and 5 activities.

Festivities formally open Friday afternoon with a reception for the attending couples in the Alumni Hall Lounge between 4:00 and 5:00. This will be a "get-acquainted" affair with the Michaelwives acting as hostesses. A buffet supper in the dining hall immediately follows the reception.

PARADE AND CONCERT

An added attraction to this year's weekend is a float parade. Starting at 7:00 P.M.

Seven Juniors model Parisian styles as they are to be featured at the 1957 Junior Weekend, May 3-5. All Juniors plan to display similar attire on Preview Day, April 11, as well as at the Weekend itself.

Passion Play Set Design By Donald Rathgeb

Donald Rathgeb, Technical Supervisor for Player's Incorporated, has designed the scenery setting for the Passion Play to be presented by the Knights and Knaves in Memorial Auditorium on April 14. This announcement was released today by Dr. Armando Citarella, director of the presentation, "Shekels."

VOLUNTEERS SERVICES

As Technical Supervisor for this famed theatrical group, Rathgeb designed and constructed all scenery settings for the plays presented last summer at St. Michael's summer Playhouse. When hearing that SMC's Dramatics Club was producing the Passion Play, he volunteered his services

Graduate Record Exams Next Week

The Graduate Record Exams will be given to seniors on April 12 and 13. All seniors are required to take these exams in order to graduate from St. Michael's.

TEST TIMES

The Area Tests are scheduled for Friday afternoon, April 12, from 1:30 to 5:00 P.M. for all fourth year men. The Advanced Test, set for Saturday morning, April 13, from 9:00 A.M. to 12:00 noon, is open to seniors whose field of concentration is one the following: Biology, Chemistry, Economics, French, Government (Political Science), History, Literature (English), Mathematics, Philosophy, or Sociology. There will not be any Advanced Test for concentrators in Business Administrations, Classics and Social Studies.

The Area Test is intended to examine the student's grasp of basic concepts in social science, humanities and natural science, and the ability to apply these concepts to the variety of materials which are presented for his interpretation. Each test is about 75 minutes in length.

The Advanced Test is designed to measure the student's achievement and ability to work in a major field of concentration. The time limit for this test is three hours.

PURPOSES

Graduate Record Exams are made up by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey. They are administered to obtain information regarding the intellectual capacities and educational achievements of students. On the basis of the results, the educational program at St. Michael's College is evaluated and the performance of SMC students is compared to that of students in other colleges throughout the nations.

Science Night Termed Success

The fourth annual Science Night, held Thursday, March 28 in Science Hall, was termed "very successful" by Paul Bouffard, Chemistry Club President. The Chemistry Club co-sponsored the affair with the Boilogy and Physics Departments.

The affair was held primarily for high school students interested in the sciences and served as a demonstration of the College's facilities in the field of science. Students representing 15 different Vermont high schools attended, totaling about 160 present.

The students were conducted through the building by ushers to view the different exhibitions which were being demonstrated by members of sponsoring organizations.

MAIN SPEAKER

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Alden P. Landall, supervisor of Technical Services for General Electric in Pittsfield, Mass. Landall spoke on the growth, uses and types of plastics, employing slides.

Another highly interesting feature of Science Night was a glass blowing exhibition by Dr. Henry Lemaire of St. Michael's.

The demonstrations were conducted simultaneously in each department. In the physics department, interest was shown in the photo electric cell, which is commonly known as the "electric eye". In the Chemistry department, the geiger counter, PH meter, and fractional distillation column were points of attention. The Biology department prepared exhibits in genetics, physiology, anatomy, embryology and microscopic cells.

The demonstrators and ushers were members of the clubs which jointly sponsored the night.

Dr. Henry Lemaire of St. Michael's Physics Department demonstrates the act of glass blowing as a feature of Science Night exhibitions in Science Hall on Thursday, March 28. The event was sponsored for the benefit of high school students throughout the State of Vermont.

SNEA State Convention On Campus This Week

The State Convention of the Student National Education Association is being held on campus this weekend. Delegates from Lyndon, Johnson and Castleton Teachers Colleges, as well as the UVM and St. Michael's S.N.E.A. Chapter have been invited to attend. The two-day convention has been organized to plan State S.N.E.A. activities for the coming year and will include election of State officers.

OPENING SESSIONS

Registration in the Alumni Hall Student Lounge has been scheduled for this morning, April 6, with the opening session this afternoon. Following welcoming addresses by St. Michael's faculty members and State S.N.E.A. President Tom Leavitt, the convention will hear a keynote address by Mr. Cornelius Hannigan.

Mr. Hannigan, a '43 graduate of St. Michael's, is presently teaching History at Technical High School in Springfield, Mass.

The afternoon activities will conclude with a Business Meeting of various committee reports.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT

Entertainment chairman Jon Munroe has announced a program for Saturday evening. Included are instrumental as well as vocal selections by Neil Fitzpatrick, James Acquino, Dick Fanelli, and the "Knight-lighters".

ELECTIONS

The election of new state officers will be held Sunday morning following church services. Among the nominees for the various offices are:

Fr.F.Moriarty Elected Veep By Fund Group

The Very Rev. Francis E. Moriarty, SSE, President of St. Michael's College, was elected First Vice-President of the New England Colleges Fund at the recent annual meeting of this organization. Also at the meeting, annually held for the election of officers and distribution of funds, St. Michael's was granted $8,617 as its share of the organization's funds.

UNITE EFFORTS

The New England Colleges Fund is composed of 24 colleges throughout New England with the purpose of uniting efforts to obtain grants from industry. Funds are solicited in the name of the organization and the total received is then distributed on a co-operative basis.

One half of the stipend received is divided equally among the 24 colleges. The

Hewitt Lectures Here On Poetry

"The Nature and Uses of Poetry" was the topic of a lecture given by the Reverend Doctor Arthur Wentworth Hewitt on Monday evening, April 1, in Science Hall. The address was the final presentation in the Student Council Lecture Series.

The noted author, lecturer and legislator, who asserted that "poetry is life's blood to me and I love it," commented that in judging poetry it is necessary to have a broad mind and not to condemn that which is not immediately pleasing. "Because," he said, "it is not what is written or said about it but what is written in it that determines its greatness". He added that whatever will be excellent will be excellent until the end of time.

Stressing poetry's usefulness before faculty members and students of the college, he noted that in spite of common belief, poetry is not ornamental or decorative. He went on to say that poetry has many practical uses, which he listed in five points.

"Poetry promotes a knowledge of the time in which it was written" he pointed out, citing the epics of Homer and Virgil and Beowulf as examples.

Dr. Hewitt also said that poetry "does things" by the emotional effect it has upon people. He mentioned the songs of the French Revolu-

LITERARY OBSCENITY

"Not very long ago it would have been regarded as shocking to find girls in their teens reading the kind of books they are now writing." This was the conclusion reached by Robert Clurman in his "In and Out of Books" column in the "New York Times Book Review," (Aug. 19, 1956). Mr. Clurman had been discussing Francoise Sagan, author of "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile".

The emergence of American contenders in what the "Times" calls the "Sagan sweepstakes" is especially evident in the relatively current novel "Peyton Place". The novel, according to the blurb, "lifts the lid off a small New England town and brings Tobacco Road up north and gives it a Yankee accent." More truthfully, an unbearable stench is let loose by the lifted lid, and the Yankee accent is couched in some of the foulest language yet to be printed in our age. Grace Metallius yields nothing in her ability to shame and shock us from here to eternity.

The authors of this type of literary lasciviousness, so overflowingly apparent in the works of Mlle. Sagan and Grace Mettalius, defend themselves on the ground that this sort of thing is "artistic realism". The "artists" of such salacious fodder have one great cause to defend -- namely what they call "intellectual freedom"; that is, their own holy privilege of moral anarchism and social irresponsibility.

Being realistic about the matter, we can't help but realize that this so-called freedom is nothing but pernicious shame. The expression of men's thought and imagination in works of art cannot be divorced from its social consequences, where artful appeals to sensuality, immorality, and degeneracy are widely disseminated. The maintenance of a high standard of human decency is essential to civilized life and liberty. This does not involve a foolish prudery which makes the adult treatment of certain human problems and situations impossible; but it does involve intolerance towards mere filth and perversion where no end is served except that of "making a fast buck" by selling obscenity.

But would you give me one small kiss?"
"And why should I do such a thing?"

Because there's romance in the air
Because you are so very fair!"

Kenney Releases Interview Dates

Announcement was made today by Mr. Thomas Kenney, Placement Director, that the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., will conduct interviews for all interested seniors on Thursday, April 11. Mr. Kenney pointed out that New England Tel. & Tel. offers at present one of the finest training programs for potential members of the organization. He also said that the Upjohn pharmaceutical house and the Ayerst Laborities will be on campus to interview seniors on the 30th of April and the 1st of May. In connection with the Ayerst Laboratories, Mr. Kenney indicated that this firm was looking for a personnel assistant as well as research men in the field of Chemistry.

Mr. Kenney further wished to announce that the 1957 Loyalty Fund Drive, after a slow start, showed highly encouraging signs of meeting the goal of $25,000 dollars. The total sum received thus far is a substantial sum of $9,775 dollars. It is noteable that a large percentage of the money received thus far has come from recent graduates of St. Michael's.

With all indications pointing to a successful drive, it will be the second straight year that the Loyalty Fund has surpassed it's quota. In comparison with other colleges of comparable size, the gifts which the alumni made last year, on the average exceeded by an excess of one penny, equaled the average gifts of the Amhurst alumni.

Two SMC Alumni To Be Ordained

On Thursday, May 30, the Most Rev. Robert F. Joyce, Bishop of Burlington, will ordain five young men to the Priesthood at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Burlington. Among this group are Rev. Mr. Roma Audette of Winooski and Rev. Mr. Graydon Robinson of Barton, Vt. Both of these men are alumni of St. Michael's College class of '53.

Also at the ceremonies Brother James R. Robinson of the Society of St. Edmund will be ordained. A native of Selma, Alabama, he is presently pursuing his studies at the St. Edmund Seminary in Burlington.

Rev. T. Sullivan, Dr. Durick Speak At Convention

Rev. Thomas D. Sullivan, professor of Biology at St. Michael's, will speak as a member of a panel discussion group at the New England division of the National Catholic Education Association convention in Providence, Rhode Island today. The convention is being held at Providence College, with all Catholic colleges in New England represented. Fr. Sullivan's topic for his address is "The Co-Ordinating Seminar."

The panel of which Fr. Sullivan is a member is one of many being conducted at the convention. These panels are closed discussion groups, with only biology or chemistry teachers admitted.

In his address, Fr. Sullivan will discuss all phases of the seminar program and its role in the education of a biology or chemistry major.

Dr. Jeremiah K. Durick, professor of English and Director of the Summer Session, will also address a group at the convention. Dr. Durick has entitled his commentary "The Calculus of Literary Study," which he will deliver before a meeting of the English professors.

"You mean this essay is due tomorrow, Clyde? How am I gonna finish a thing like this in a few hours? Whadayaknow about the effects of hieroglyphics on the history of philosophy?"

"Not much, Stanley, but I think I can help. Grab a razor, a pair of shears and a stapler and meet me at the library in two minutes. We'll have this thing done in no time."

With a brief pause, eyes flashing in agreement, our friends Clyde and Stanley depart, quickly rejoining at the library entrance.

"Now don't get excited, Stanley, just walk quietly over to the card catalogue and take out the cards you'll need. Be careful with those shears, they're sticking out from under your coat. Why didn't you tell me you could only find hedge clippers?"

"Couldn't carry all the cards, Clyde, so I brung the whole tray. The first card reads, Hieroglyphics for Young and Old. There might be some real meat in this one."

"Here's the pages of stuff that'll interest you, Stanley. Pass me the shears... Think ten pages will be enough???? What's the next one?"

"History of Hieroglyphics as found in the Encyclopedia Britannica."

"Too much material in there, we'll have to take the whole book. What else??"

"Communist Views on Hieroglyphic Liturgy As Told to Al Capp."

"We've run into a snag here, Stanley, that one is down in the vault. I'll have to ask the guy with the glasses and flag striped suit if we can get it. You know I'm cleared for Objectionable in Part books."

"Be careful, Stanley, they haven't put lights down here yet, so don't drop the candle."

"Hey, Clyde, you'd think some fellas would show some respect for another's property. Two of them books we borrowed from had pages missin'. We almost didn't get what we needed."

"Push the button, Stanley, and don't hit your head on the electric eye. We should hear the challenge from the guard soon."

"Halt... who does? Friend or foe?"

"It's only us sent by Joe..."

"Now that we're here let's see what else collects dust."

"Look at that old monk in the corner pasting pages in encyclopedias and dictionaries..."

Yes, the encyclopedias have taken their place with other highly treasured works of literature in the St. Michael's library. An author can really feel honored when one of his books is stored away in the vault located deep down in the cellar. This means that his work is considered so good that no one should be allowed to read it. But then again there's the problem of choosing which books might prove harmful to one's moral character. Whoever heard of college students deciding what is permissable to read and what isn't??????

At the base of the staircase and to the left stands the well-guarded metal structure. An honor guard of ten Arnold Air Society members in full combat gear stand prepared to thwart any attempts at breaking into this subterranean cavern. And why shouldn't they??? Just listen to what's hidden there: Nancy Goes to College, The Babe Ruth Story, Buck Rogers Turns Protestant, and both volumes of Grimm's Fairy Tales, as translated by Plutarch.... One of our students was completely overwhelmed when he came upon a book containing the word darn. How did this book ever manage to find a place upstairs??? He promptly reported it to the officials who couldn't believe what they saw. Hurry, hurry.... turn out the lights and sneak this into the vault.

We can understand their concern over getting the book stashed away in the secret chamber, but locking up the poor guy who reported it seems unnecessary. When commenting before the Senate Hidden Controversial Book Committee the officials pleaded the Fifth Amendment, but stated that to endanger the moral health of the other students would be intellectual murder.

It could be that this attitude is partly responsible for the students around here acting like juvenile delinquents. (Let's all wake up and do our part to act like educated people and remember the words of the French scholar Guy Montaigne La Fontanelli De Lamoo. "If a book is worth having in a library it's worth reading on the porch.").

DAILY MASS 7:00

Glee Club Shows Singing Prowess In Sun.Concert

The annual Spring Concert of the St. Michael's College Glee Club was presented Sunday night, March 31, in Austin Hall before an audience of 200 music lovers.

The Glee Club, directed by John Donoghue, captured the interest of the audience at the very beginning of the program. The 50 young men marched smartly from the back of the hall to the platform under the purple and gold banner of St. Michael's, singing in cadence, "When the Saints Go Marching In."

GOOD PROGRAM

The club had a well arranged program. Opening with a group of college songs, the program progressed into a religious segment, which included the Gregorian "Salve Regina" and the white spiritual, "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley" to close out the first part of the syllabus.

The last section of the program was devoted to Folk songs and a group of Broadway favorites. Selections were also heard from the "Knight-lighters", soloist James Aquino, who did a commendable job on two of his own compositions.

Dr. Richard Stoehr received an ovation from the audience when his composition, "Procession to the Shrine" first published in Peipzig, was played for the first time in America by Neil Fitzpatrick.

SHOWS PROGRESS

The concert presented by the club shows great improvement over the past few years and the potential of bringing recognition to St. Michael's in the coming years. The club has one remaining concert in Burlington to complete it's work for the season.

other half is then distributed on a percentage basis, proportional to the number of liberal arts graduates from each college.

ADDITIONAL GRANT

It was at this recent distribution meeting that Fr. Moriarty was elected First Vice-President. Upon assuming office, one of his first acts was to announce a gift of $24,000 to the Fund from the United States Steel Foundation, Inc. Of this sum, St. Michael's will ultimately receive $1000.

Commenting on the United States Steel Foundation, Inc. program, Fr. Moriarty said, "This great program is of tremendous importance to all independent higher education in America. We are grateful for the vision which has made this program possible. I know that I express the sentiments of all the associated institutions of the New England Colleges Fund in extending our sincere thanks and appreciation for this gift."

Other institutions besides St. Michael's associated with the Fund are Middlebury, Amherst, Bates, Boston College, Clark, Colby, Connecticut College, Dartmouth, Emmannuel Fairfield, Holy Cross, Mount Holyoke, Providence, Radcliffe, Regis, St. Anselm's, Smith, Tufts, Wellesley, Wesleyan, Wheaton and Williams.

tion, and World War I and the inspiration they produced in the people. "Poetry is a great source of amusement", he added.

"Of course," he conceeded, "it has what to some would be its most important useful characteristic, - the monetary value for its sale". He also mentioned its religious value in helping us to pray to God. The "Hound of Heaven" was recommended as an example for those who are experiencing a spiritual struggle or discouragement in any form.

Finally Rev. Dr. Hewitt pointed out that nothing beats poetry as an expression of love. It is one of the best ways to portray affection for another person.

WEEKEND

Friday from the Open Door in Burlington, the parade will terminate on campus. Each floor from every hall will enter a float and a $15 prize is to be awarded to the floor entering the most attractive ones.

From 8:00 P.M. through midnight a Jazz Concert by the famous Max Kaminsky and his Dixieland Smashers in Austin Hall will close the first day of activities. Tables will be set up but there will be ample space for dancing at the concert.

BEACH PARTY

Saturday's schedule begins with an open-house in Alumni Hall between 10:00 and 12:00 A.M., followed by a buffet dinner in the dining hall. At 1:00 P.M. the weekend rs will gather at Mallett's l for a beach party that will last all afternoon.

FORMAL BALL

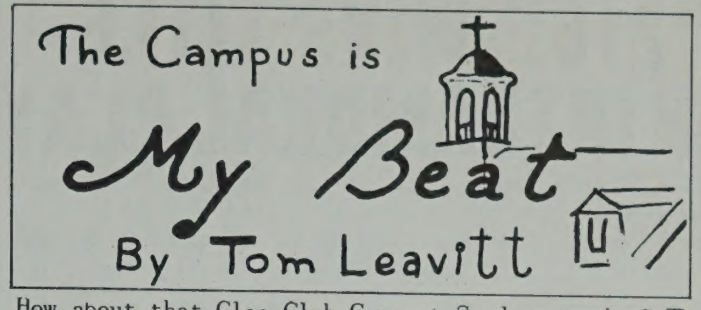
Needless to say, the climax of the entire weekend is the formal prom, held at the Lake Champlain Country Club Saturday night. Michaelmen and their dates will swing to the music of Ralph Marterie's golden trumpet and his "Downbeat" orchestra from 9:00 P.M. through 1:00 A.M. The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Junior Weekend Queen by Ralph Marterie.

At 10:30 Sunday morning the president of St. Michael's College, the Very Rev. Francis E. Moriarty, SSE, will say the weekend Mass and bless the attending couples.

For those still on campus Sunday afternoon, an informal Sock Hop is scheduled in Austin Hall. With this last event, the Junior Weekend will come to a close for another year.

ANTICIPATES SUCCESS

As chairman of the Weekend Committee, Pierre Pellitier, phrases it, "This is the biggest Junior Weekend ever for St. Michael's and judging by the very large number of tickets already sold, it is being received with a very enthusiastic response by all Michaelmen. This makes the Junior Class very happy for this is everyone's weekend and to insure future weekends it should be unanimously supported".



How about that Glee Club Concert Sunday evening? Tho the crowd was small, the Michaelmen really produced, and the result was the best singing we've heard on this campus in four years. The fellows crossed their "T's", "geed" their "G's", went from a roar to a whisper with nary a snag, leaving the audience with the impression that our men would stand up against some of the best. The Director and President Dan McCarthy are to be congratulated for a fine job, as are Seniors Bob Conlin, Chick Hennigan, Don Wehmeyer, Jack Kingston, Jerry Morrissey, John Hoo ben and Philip Beaudoin, all veteran members of the club.

* * * *

Editors Father Paul Gopaul and Mike O'Keefe, of the Lance, are also being praised this week for the third issue of this year's Lance. We're probably not telling anyone anything when we identify Dr. Henry Fairbanks as the author of "The Screwball Letters (cont.)". The very amusing article had his personality imprinted on it throughout. Editor O'Keefe says that he hopes to have at least one faculty contribution in each issue of the literary quarterly from now on. A fourth issue, the deadline for which is April 16, will be published in June.

* * * *

We received a letter from the Chairman of an NFCCS (National Federation of Catholic College Students) Commission in the mail last week, propagandizing her organization, which prompted us to speculate on what our campus unit has contributed this year. We remember a discussion on Labor last fall, under the auspices of Terry O'Grady's Commission on Labor Relations. However, this seems to us to be a small return for the sizable monetary investment our Student Council made in the organization early in the year. For the past four years on this campus, the outfit has been a political football, passed from friend to friend for what it is worth in the way of party weekends, trips to other campuses, and a seat on the Student Council. Sophomore Terry O'Grady, says that next year the NFCCS on this campus will be the same "in name only." A change would be good, and if Terry does as good a job with the campus unit as he has with his Commission, it should show some improvement.

"216" WINS TITLE IN INTRAMURAL PLAY

The "216" Seniors of Alumni II paced by Russ Camire who won the Most Valuable Player Award, turned back the highly-spirited Junior "Squires" of Alumni III tonight 33-25 to win the Intrmural Championship of 1957.

'CINDERELLA' TEAM

The Senior club, who drew a bye in the second round and defeated the Hoboes last night, 30-23 to enter the finals, were the favorites. The "Squires", who are the 'Cinderella' Team of the Tournament, were not even considered a darkhorse when it began. They knocked off the top seated Pre-Theo team 24-19 and the "Hatchetmen" 30-25 to make the finals.

SQUIRES TAKE CHARGE

In the first half it appeared that the underdog "Squires" would be spoilers again as they showes signs of running the "216ers" off the floor. Sparked by the consistent rebounding of Gene Condreras, and the passing of Paul Olendrowicz and Pete McMahon, they took charge immediately and kept the lead until halftime when they left the floor ahead by a slim 11-10 margin. At one time they had boasted an eight point lead only to have it shaved.

CAMIRE THE DIFFERENCE

The second half saw Camire and Ace Gennari take charge of the boards as the slower but stronger Seniors wore the "Squires" down. Camire scored 10 points in the second half along with his rebounding. With two quick field goals by Frank Pilch it looked like the "Squires" might make a last ditch comeback as they had done the night before against the "Hatchetmen".

OLENDROWICZ TOP SCORER

In all Camire's game total was 13 points while Olendrowicz had 11 for the "Squires". Olendrowicz paced the league in the scoring department with 39 points to Camire's 31. Paul, however, played in one more game than Russ.

PASSION PLAY

as a set designer. Dr. Citarella accepted and recently received the blueprints.

Commenting on Rathgeb's work, Dr. Citarella said, "After becoming thoroughly acquainted with the setting of "Shekels", Don was able to design one background scene composed of four levels, which can be used throughout the five acts of the play. As a result of his fine work, scene shifts will be effected by indirect lighting and the change of a few minor props. This has enabled us to present the play with a greater ease and eliminates many technical problems."

A graduate of Catholic University, Rathgeb is presently serving Uncle Sam in the United States Army. John Haggerty, who worked as assistant to Rathgeb for Player's Incorporated last summer, is constructing the scenery.

Dr. Citarella also commented that rehearsals are progressing very satisfactorily and he hopes to begin rehearsing the cast in Memorial Auditorium by April 7. He added that there appears to be a wide interest in the play.

FOURTEEN

★ PRESIDENTIAL SCHOLARSHIPS

The twelve Boston College Law School Presidential Scholarships, named in memory of the founder of the Law School and past presidents of Boston College, are awarded to men and women who give promise of becoming distinguished lawyers and exercising outstanding moral leadership in their community. The full-tuition scholarships, worth over two thousand dollars apiece, are awarded on a three-year basis subject only to the maintenance by the recipient of a Dean's List record.

★ THE KEEFE SCHOLARSHIP

Each year the income on a gift of $15,000, left in memory of The Keefe Family, is awarded to a promising student in need of financial aid.

★ THE O'CONNELL SCHOLARSHIP

The income on $8,000, left by P. A. O'Connell in memory of his son, Edmund, is annually made available to a student in the day or evening school of law.

● QUALIFICATIONS ●

1. Candidates for the Presidential Scholarships must have graduated from college with a superior record and have obtained a high score on the Law School Admission Test sponsored by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey.

2. Applications for scholarships should be completed and returned to the Boston College Law School as soon as grades from the first semester of senior year are available.
